BANK OF MAYSVILLE, NATIONAL BANKING ASSOCIATION, PUBLISHES CREDITABLE STATEMENT.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the statement of the Bank of Maysville, National Banking Association, showing its condition at the close of business June 23, 1915.

A cursory glance at the statement shows that there are no overdrafts nor bills payable, and while an analysis of the whole statement can not but reflect credit upon the management of this bank, the absence of overdrafts is especially commendable, and the fact that there are no bills payable demonstrates the ability of this institution to take care of its large volume of business, from its own resources, without borrowing any foreign capital.

There is much that might be said in commendation of this statement, but suffice it to say that it again demonstrates the right of the Bank of Maysville, National Banking Association, to a position in the front rank of Kentucky financial institutions.

BOONE TRAIL MONUMENT TO BE UNVEILED JUNE 30 AT CUMBERLAND GAP.

The Daughters of the American Revolution have been engaged for some time in properly marking the original Boone trail, and, as Boone lived in this immediate neighborhood for some time, the following article, contributed by Mrs. C. H. Clark, of Washington, D. C., will prove interesting:

On June 20 at Cumberland Gap, Tenn., a monument will be unveiled commemorating the marking of the Boone Trail, a work that was undertaken by the Daughters of the American Revolution of those states through which the trail passes, namely, North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky.

Handsome invitations have been sent to prominent citizens in the four states, and the Governors of Tennessee and Virginia, the State Regents, Vice Presidents of the organization and distinguished citizens will participate in the unveiling.

Rome had its Appian Way, Greece the temple-crowned path to Marathon, Egypt her sandy highway to the pyramids, but equalizing them in historic interest, surpassing them in loveliness, is our own "Wilderness Road," the Boone Trail. That is the highway that the Daughters are marking, and in so doing will memorialize those who carved this nation out of the wilderness.

The monument to be unveiled is a joint marker for the four states, with four sides, one for each state. The words on the marker will be:

Daniel Boone's Trail
North Carolina to Kentucky
1769
Marked by the Tennessee Daughters of the American Revolution.

The date 1769 was a middle date chosen from the many dates between the years 1760, when Boone went on his first hunting trip to Kentucky, and 1775, when, after a treaty with the Indians and the purchase of Kentucky lands by Col. Henderson, Boone led his band of settlers into the land of promise.

The trail in North Carolina covers a distance of 150 miles and the North Carolina Daughters have placed thirteen markers. Virginia Daughters are placing markers and Kentucky will mark the trail from the Kentucky line to Boonesboro.

In the many and various undertakings of the Daughters of the American Revolution to preserve the history of this country, none has been of more interest than the marking of the Boone Trail through North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia. This joint celebration promises to be a notable event, and commemorating and perpetuating the memory of this bit of history is another chapter in D. A. R. work.

Hon. M. M. Durrett, of Covington, is here today visiting relatives.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Negro Man Takes Carbolic Acid, But Self-Destruction Is Foiled By Physician.

Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock, William Jackson, colored, of Batavia, O., attempted to commit suicide at his boarding house in Graves alley. Jackson had been casting his affections upon a lady of color of this city and the lady evidently did not give him much encouragement, as he became despondent and tried to end it all.

Tuesday afternoon he found some carbolic acid which had been used as a germicide about his rooming house, and took some of it. His cries of agony were heard by Myra Lane, who runs the boarding house, and she called in Dr. A. O. Taylor, who administered to the man and succeeded in saving his life, although he was badly burned about the face and mouth.

This morning he is somewhat better and no doubt will recover from the effects of his rash deed.

COURT OF APPEALS

To Decide Brick Street Case On Saturday.

Hon. J. M. Collins, attorney for the plaintiffs in the injunction suit filed in the Mason County Court by I. M. Lane et al., vs. the City of Maysville, and Ruh & Schmidt Construction Company, arrived home Tuesday evening from Frankfort, where he had been arguing the case before the Court of Appeals. Mr. Collins said that Presiding Judge Settle promised a decision by Saturday at the latest. Those who brought the proceedings against the city are very confident that the Court of Appeals will affirm the decision of Circuit Judge C. D. Newell, holding the ordinance illegal on the ground that it was not passed by a two-thirds vote of Council.

Dr. Simpson has now returned to live in Maysville, which he has always considered the most progressive town of the state, and while he will conduct his branch office in Lexington, his headquarters and principal establishment will be on the third floor of the First National Bank building, in this city, where he is fully equipped to render the same service as always.

OLD-FASHIONED JUSTICE.

County Judge W. H. Rice had the young negro boys who held up Alex Kirk before him Tuesday morning. The boys were then set free, sadder but wiser for their experience.
